What is SSI?

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) provides monthly payments from the U.S. Treasury to qualifying persons with disabilities. Payments are made to persons who have limited income and resources and who meet living arrangement requirements. Social Security follows rules and policies and reviews recipients' disabilities periodically to ensure they meet program requirements. Until a child turns 18, Social Security considers the income and resources of family members who are a part of your household with regard to program income requirements. If your child qualifies, Social Security assigns a representative payee (parent, family member, or other caregiver) to help manage the money and pay for basic living expenses and needs.

After the child turns 18, Social Security reviews the child's disability, and only the child's income and resources. The adult definition of disability is based on one's ability to work. Sometimes people who qualified for SSI payments under the children's rules do not meet the rules and policies of the adult program. Be sure to give Social Security any requested information about your child's medical condition and doctors who have treated his/her disability. On the other hand, the adult rules consider only the child's income and resources, not those of others in the household. Even if the child could not receive SSI payments before his/her 18th birthday because the family made too much money, he/she may now qualify as an adult.

If Social Security makes a decision about SSI payments that you do not agree with, you can appeal through several levels in the agency and the federal district court.

SSI is to be used to pay the costs of food, clothing and shelter for the recipient. If your child is living with you and is approved for SSI after he/she turns 18, the SSI check will be reduced by one-third unless he/ she is paying living expenses. The amount of living expenses does need to be a fair amount, one that a parent would charge for anyone who may rent a room in their household. A rental agreement between the parent and child should be developed and provided to the Social Security Administration (SSA). SSA website: https://www.ssa.gov

Did You Know?

Your child may be eligible to continue with special education services until the end of the school year following his/hers 21st birthday.

If the IEP team, which must include you and your child, determines that a student will not meet the graduation requirements for a regular high school diploma or is in need to continued transition services, a new IEP can be developed for the next school year and services can continue. Many school districts in SD are developing and implementing creative educational opportunities for students who continue with special education services.

Transition Services for Students

"The only thing worse than being blind is having sight but no vision" - Helen Keller

While in high school, your child should...

- Learn about his/her disability and be able to explain it.
- ✓ Become involved in extra-curricular activities.
- Talk with his/her teachers of what his/her strengths,
- challenges and needed accommodations are.
- Actively participate in IEP meetings.
  - Consider applying for services through Service to the Blind and Visually Impaired.
- ✓ Apply for Youth Leadership Forum (www.tslp.org) and SD Rehabilitation Center for the Blind Transition Week.
  - Engage in volunteer work experiences.
- Develop career interests and participate in job shadowing.

If your child is going on to post-secondary schooling, he/ she should also...

- ✓ Tour and visit with disability services at colleges of interest. ✓ Attend Catch the Wave (www.tslp.org).
- Address the possible need for assistive technology devices. Set high standards for themselves.
- ✓ Take ACT (American College Test) or ACCUPLACER exams

Employment Supports

There are a variety of vocational rehabilitation services that Service to the Blind and Visually Impaired (SBVI) can offer to students with disabilities. If your child hasn't applied for these services by age 16, or younger, if appropriate, please request the school to invite a VR counselor to meet with you and/or your child or attend an IEP meeting. SBVI vocational rehabilitation counselors are qualified to assist students with vision loss with a variety of services. Some services SBVI may provide (based on eligibility, financial need and individual needs) are:

- $\checkmark$  guidance in transition planning;
- $\checkmark$  financial assistance for college or training, when appropriate;
- ✓ vocational counseling and guidance;
- ✓ work experience through Project Skills and/or job placement, job coaching, and employment/follow along services for competitive employment in the community;
- $\checkmark$  transportation, equipment and other services if needed for training;
- $\checkmark$  low vision exam;
- ✓ advocacy skills;
- ✓ skills of blindness training, and
- $\checkmark$  assessing the need for assistive technology equipment and services.

For information on the address and phone number of the SBVI office nearest you, go to https://dhs.sd.gov/servicetotheblind/default.aspx or call (605) 773-4644.

Encourage your Child to Attend a Transition Event with You!

TSLP provides regionally based events and activities for high school students with disabilities, their parents, educators and adult agencies. These transition events and activities provide education and information for students to make a seamless transition from high school to the adult world of employment, education or training, and independent living.

Some of the events include—

- Let's Talk Work!
- Catch the Wave
- Transition Forums
- Youth Leadership Forum (YLF)

The more educated students can become regarding their transition from high school, the further developed their advocacy skills become. Advocacy skills can lead to a better life for students if they can speak up for what they need...

More specific information on location and date can be found at www.tslp.org/events.

The Law & Guardianship

It can be a particularly worrisome time if you question your child's ability to make important life decisions when he/she turns 18. Is full guardianship necessary or would a less restrictive option be more suitable for you and your child?
